Are we all SAVAGES?
Over 75 people from The Green Man Taproom have the answer

Dateline Feb. 3, 2015 - Colorado Springs, CO - Over seventy-five people filled The Green Man Taproom on Saturday, January 31st to celebrate the release of the book Savages by local author Christina Bergling. Paperback copies of Savages sold out within the first twenty minutes of the event, and Bergling donated half of that money to the Wounded Warrior Project in the name of a classmate who died last year.

Savages, a bestseller in US horror, is available from Amazon at <http://www.amazon.com/dp/B00R8YRBYY>, and Barnes & Noble at <http://www.barnesandnoble.com/w/savages-christina-bergling/1120991951>. In this grim portrait of post apocalyptic survival, the survivors of an apocalypse—from preppers and soldiers to passengers in life—face the horror of not knowing what happened to the world around them as they question whether humanity was ever human to begin with.

Colorado-bred writer Christina Bergling sold her soul early into the writing game. By fourth grade, she knew she wanted to be an author, and in college, she actively pursued it and started publishing small scale. However, with the realities of eating and paying bills, the survivalist in her hocked her passion for dystopian horror for a profession as a technical writer and document manager, even traveling to Iraq as a contractor. Bergling is a mother of two young children and lives with her family in Colorado Springs.
